

Local design firm wins international partnership

Romsey-based electronics and software engineering consultants CircuitWorx have revealed they are the new UK design partner for established French manufacturing specialist Selva Electronique. The collaboration will boost sales for both companies and bring new engineering jobs to the region.

The French company is committing resources to help UK companies take their product ideas from concept through to market, with CircuitWorx engineers leading the design and development stages and Selva able to manufacture the finished products.

Announcing the partnership, CircuitWorx director and hardware expert Rob Steel explained: "We are really excited that we can now offer Selva's state-of-the-art manufacturing facilities and expertise to our clients to perfectly complement our own electronics and software design services."

The local firm has gone from strength to strength since its inception two years ago and were recently shortlisted as finalists in the Enterprising Wiltshire Awards 2016 Start-up of the Year category. CircuitWorx co-founder and software expert Carl Matthews said: "We are confident that this new collaboration with Selva will help us grow our business and offer even better services to our clients. We are looking forward to doubling our engineering team over the next couple of years to support this growth."
